UDC 323.21(497.5)
Anotation This is a book about contemporary Croatian society and the place of citizens and civic activism in it. It defends the principles and warns of anomalies. Without that, the whole of Croatia, or everything in it, will be a "democratic" self-service for politicians and people connected with them. For citizens, democracy will only be possible in the supermarket. With "special" prices. There is a culture of democracy at work with two faces: one is used in front of the public, and the other in the darkness behind closed doors, away from the public eye...

Description 297 str. : ilustr. ; 21 cm.

Anotation In this book, the author not only offers a useful synthesis of existing knowledge about the activities of women's organizations and the articulation of the "women's issue" from the end of the First to the beginning of World War II, but also presents a modern and concise interpretation of relevant sources and contemporary literature. The Kingdom of Yugoslavia had more than two hundred women's organizations and was published in dozens of magazines, and international links with feminist and peace movements were intense.

On the one hand, it contains a list of these animals, and on the other hand, a detailed and imaginative attempt to interpret their meanings in a particular context, often falling into Harms's logic and explanations.

The minutes of the History Students 'Club, stored in the Croatian State Archives in the "History Students' Club of the University of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes in Zagreb" are the minutes of board meetings and general assemblies of the club in its period from its founding in 1925 to its cessation in 1941. These records represent valuable historical material, as they provide insight into the organization and internal life of one of the largest and most active student organizations at the Faculty of Philosophy in Zagreb in the interwar period.

Anotation this book primarily provides an analysis of the criminal and misdemeanor proceedings conducted by the courts of the Socialist Republic of Croatia (SRH) from 1980 to the spring of 1990 against people who did not want to remain silent and the words they considered necessary to utter or write. To a lesser extent, it also refers to the repression of the right to public information. It then brings considerations as to why the regime considered the authors of the undesirable words to be extremely dangerous enemies.

The process is carefully written in eight notebooks that reveal to readers a vast expanse of different thoughts about current political events such as the First World War, the revolution and the collapse of the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy, as well as personal adaptation to the new, postwar world.

 Anotation The book brings together ten studies, mostly dedicated to older Croatian literature in Bosnia and Herzegovina and its presentation in the history of literature. The author views this segment of Croatian literature as part of a broader phenomenon of the Franciscan culture of Bosnia Srebrena, which in the pre-modern period included Zagorje Dalmatia, Slavonia, Srijem, Bačka, Banat and southern Hungary. The texts are also connected by the interest in studying the relationship between the historiographical and literary-artistic aspects of this literary tradition.

 Anotation When Lana Bastašić came up with the idea at the end of 2019 that six young writers from six countries would start writing a joint diary in 2020, in which each of them would record their experiences in two months, probably neither she nor the other five - Luiz Bouharou, Dijana Matković, Rumena Bužarovska, Danilo Lučić and Nikola Nikolić - did not even think that they would write about the year that will mark the lives of all the inhabitants of the planet. And it is this initial, innocent position from which everything starts that gives this diary a special charm, but its authors know very well how to deal with the adversities they encounter, because this in their lives, as well as ours, after all, is neither the strangest nor the worst. times.

This is a novel of original origin with a strong message about human malice and superficiality that needs to be stopped. Shouldn't we imagine and try to read for ourselves the signs that nature regularly sends us, and we usually don't even try to decipher them?

The Oblak čvoraka (Cloud of Starlings) is a story about the search for one's own, fundamental identity, for a place in the world of people, for the dream of each of us that is far from the collective - because each bird in the flock has its own story, identity and vocation.  Subject Croatian drama - Collections of texts
 Anotation Drama collection Marin Držić Award. Croatian Drama 2020 contains six plays awarded in the competition of the Ministry of Culture of the Republic of Croatia "Marin Držić" for 2020. Marina Vujčić's first-prize-winning drama Plodna voda (Fertile Water) deals in an anti-utopian way with the themes of a woman's right to make choices about her own body, motherhood, but also male-female relations. The second prize is shared equally by Monika Herceg and Dorotea Šušak. In the play Ubij se, tata (Kill Yourself, Dad) Herceg talks about domestic violence, while Šušak in the text Vježbanje smrti ili pauze u disanju (Practicing death or a pause in breathing) deals with the topic of dealing with illness and the death of a loved one. The third prize is shared equally by Marija Dejanović, Anja Pletikosa and Nikolina Rifaj. Marija Dejanović's drama Ne moramo više govoriti, svi su otišli (We don't have to talk anymore, everyone is gone) interprets the gloomy relations within the family that fled Bosnia to Croatia. In the play entitled zaivanaradica@gmail.com, Pletikosa deals with a youthful love, while the play by Nikola Rafaj U pakao, lijepo molim (To hell, please) talks about the ways in which a father and son face the death of their wife or mother.

 Anotation The book Ne plači, dušo (Don't Cry, Honey) contains ten stories and one poetic-prose fragment. It functions as a kind of epilogue - about our everyday, ordinary madness, which sometimes reaches terrible proportions and consequences. These are stories of misunderstanding and communication noises that network our lives, of desires, fears and passions. Stories that distort our characters, about trying to find meaning and some kind of pleasure in everyday life.

 Impressum Zagreb : Disput, 2021.

 Anotation Nepovredivo mjesto (The Inviolable Place), Igor Ivko's debut collection of stories, is in many ways an unusual phenomenon on the Croatian literary scene. It does not often happen that a younger author enters the story so authoritatively, balancing between motivic realism and a deeply existentialist attitude towards the world, protected by his own narrative maturity from the weight of the thematic complex chosen for the plot.

 Description 139 str. ; 21 cm.
 Serie Biblioteka Žive slike
 ISBN 9789532604146 : EUR 17,90 US$ 21,70
 Anotation Okretište (The Turning Point) is a novel that deals directly with, or rather struggles with, the trauma of the protagonist going through this experience. It is therefore an autofictional work, Karakaš's most intimate text so far. Although there is neither a spectacle nor a black chronicle in the novel, this novel leaves you breathless; stripped to the core, Okretište is a painfully touching dedication to life, survival.

 Anotation In the fragments of this book of reflective and experimental prose, Tatjana Gromača establishes a dense network of comparative meanings from the forms of confession and imaginary dialogues of the subject with the other side of her own redundancy. When language becomes the only saving escape from the world as an archipelago of constructive madness, life itself takes on an aura of solemn ruin.

 ISBN 9789535204008 (meki uvez) : EUR 15,60 US$ 19,00
 Anotation Vedrana Rudan has been relentlessly tracing the Croatian reality in her books for twenty years. Unfortunately, even though so many years have passed, this reality is no better - even today we are a hateful, exclusive society in which the antiheroes of Vedrana's books are still cheerful and dressed - corrupt politicians, hypocritical priests, abusers, rapists, thieves... And there is one a completely new catastrophe - life at the time of the corona - which the author also dealt with in detail in this text, which, it is clear to you from the first moment, is not a cook.

Author Prtenjača, Ivica, književnik
 Title Sine, idemo kući

 Description 164 str. ; 24 cm.
 ISBN 9789535204220 (meki uvez) : EUR 15,60 US$ 19,00
 Anotation In the new novel, Prtenjača deals with loss, short-term hope and memory, his voice is at the same time boyish, he asks, but also the mature voice of a man who makes difficult decisions. These voices merge in the rhythmic change of frames and images of the past and the present, creating an elegy in which love echoes like the sound of a cymbal. There are three of them, and they have no names. Sometimes they seem alone in the world.
The novel is the winner of the V.B.Z. Literary Award for Best Unpublished Novel in 2021.

 Anotation The novel Subota (Saturday) brings the story of an old woman, Greta, who is struggling with dementia. In her novel, Đurđica Stuhreiter does not deal with the stereotypical portrayal of the disease, although she does touch on the topics of family dysfunction after facing her mother's / mother-in-law's / grandmother's diagnosis. Disturbed relationships and grotesque situations have their roots in the past, only to be more visible and intense now. Greta, helped by unusual and even unreal characters who join her on that path, will very much compensate for the forgetfulness in the primary reality with lucidity in the other, parallel one.

 Anotation The collection U ritmu jeze - ponor plesova (In the Rhythm of Horror - Abyss of Dances) contains six fantastic stories by young Croatian authors selected by the competition of the publisher Mala zvona 2020; Josip Ćekolj, Mateja Pavlic, Marin Pelaić, Ines Vajzović, Martina Vidaić and Orina Ivan Vrkaš.  Description 332 str. ; 21 cm.

 Anotation All the better connoisseurs of Tribuson's opus will be taken by this novel to the early author's phase, which theorists have called fantastic, although he has dealt with a similar style of narration since. The novel Vilinska priča (Fairy Tale) is as much a bildungsroman as it is a fairy tale, an unusual and at times incredible story about three women and three loves who were doomed. While this is a novel about the unhappy lives of unhappy people, it is at the same time very entertaining, tense and written in an irresistible Tribuson style.

Anotation This is a novel about a child, a girl, a girl and a woman, a mother, a wife, a daughter and a grandchild, friends, neighbors, workers and citizens who share one heart. With a sure alto without falsetto and trembling, she narrates about the warmth that the family gives or denies, about the mother tongue as a foreign language, about the fact that the habitat of conjugal love is not only a hearth but also a scene.

Anotation About twenty short prose gathered here seems to revolve around the phrase uttered by the heroine of one of the stories, thinking of the state of her consciousness - learned helplessness. Whether it's middle-aged women trying to change their lives or who, on the other hand, passively watch their lives leak through their fingers, whether it's a retiree who writes a television program in a notebook with clerical pedantry, or a student who is bullied by her mother because of the ratings - all the characters are intertwined in their existences, with a great awareness of the neuralgic points of their own lives, but also with an equally great fear of action and change.

Anotation Oni (They), like Oni 2 (They 2) with their looking in the mirror, going to the beach, daily rituals, going to the sea or the store, cooking, ironing... are in those situations that require a keen eye and a sovereign simple drawing to find in them what everyone lacks - warmth and humor, and that is something that Tisja Kljaković Braić has in immeasurable quantities and selflessly shares with everyone.
It is completely irrelevant whether 'They' are in an extramarital union or in a marriage. All that matters is the love between two partners, which is actually the only real leitmotif of all the drawings, the love we see at times in our loved ones, sometimes in our own home, or if we are alone, it is the love and understanding we strive for, the life we desire. hopefully, all the way to the end of their little funny live

Anotation Fragments of Melancholy is an exhibition of the collection of the National Museum of Modern Art based on the curatorial concept of Željko Marčiuš, which follows the psychological characterization of art from the middle of the 19th to the 21st century. The curatorial concept goes beyond the stylistic classification of material and in various artistic disciplines (painting, drawing, photography, spatial object) interprets themes of melancholy, metaphysics and the surreal, introducing the audience to the world of secret, hidden human existence seeking that which is both haunted and melancholic. ...
